

Bonéval Coming to Capitol Hill

Posted by Mark Washburn on Sunday, July 14th, 2019

Brand new options for boutique-style condo living are coming to Capitol Hill. Bonéval brings with it your choice of 40 new and sophisticated condo residences, set within a highly distinguished address.

Options at Bonéval start with a one-bedroom unit. This offers its residents around 600 square feet of living space. Buyers can also, however, opt for a larger one-bedroom with a den floor plan or a two-bedroom design, some of which command more than 1,000 square feet of enviable living space.

Priced starting generally from the $400,000s, some of the largest units of Bonéval are priced upwards of $1 million. New buyers can expect to find such features and additions as high ceilings, stainless steel appliances and quartz countertops. Other additions to the homes of Bonéval include a mix of hardwood and Carrara marble flooring, solid wood cabinetry and an array of energy-efficient design features.

In addition, buyers of the Bonéval condos are treated to the tranquility of a peaceful courtyard with room for seating and conversation, a more sophisticated parlor, and an incredible rooftop terrace with space for grilling and admiring views of the surrounding DC area. The four-story building also blends in with its surroundings, with timeless elegance in one of DC's most favored neighborhoods.

The address easily puts its future residents within a short stroll of nearby Lincoln Park for outdoor fun and recreation, and from the vibrancy of Eastern Market for fresh food, crafts and artwork, plus lively entertainment. Set in the micro-neighborhood of Stanton Park, the upscale location makes it easy to reach what you need and want in the DC area.

The condos of Bonéval sit close to Union Station for ease of transportation, upscale grocery stores, dining at Barracks Row and the excitement of H Street, with its various options in nightlife and entertainment.